PREAMBLE

Critical evaluation is used to identify the strengths and weaknesses of an article, in order to evaluate the usefulness and validity of research results. The components of the critical appraisal are the appropriateness of the study design for the research question and a thorough evaluation of important methodological characteristics of this study, the adequacy of the used statistical methods and their subsequent interpretation, potential conflicts of interest and the relevance of research for clinical practice. This review steps for review and also helps in identifying high-quality studies that can guide clinical practice safely and evidence-based.

COURSE CONTENT

- Introduction
- Stages in Critical Appraisal
- Components of a Scientific Paper
- IMRAD technique

Objectives achieved:

All the students should be able to understand and critically scrutinize the scientific papers. They clearly understood that the appraisal should be made on the basis of some key issues which include, at least, an assessment of methodological aspects, potential biases, a critical analysis of the statistical component and a proper understanding of the clinical impact of the study outcomes. The concepts of sample size and study population, the difference between descriptive and inferential statistics and the proper interpretation of the p -value are key elements to correctly evaluate a clinical research was clearly understood by the students.

PREAMBLE

Research is common parlance refers to a research for knowledge. One can also define research as a scientific and systematic search for pertinent information on a specific topic. In fact, research is an art of scientific investigation. The advanced Learner's Dictionary of current English lays down the meaning of research as a "careful investigation or inquiry specially through search for new facts in any branch of knowledge". Redman and Mory define research as a "Systematized efforts to gain new knowledge" some people considered research as a movement, a movement from the known to the unknown. It is actually a voyage of discovery. We all possess the vital instinct of inquisitiveness for when the unknown confronts us we wonder and our inquisitiveness make us probe and attain full and fuller understanding of the unknown. This inquisitiveness is the mother of all knowledge and the mother which man employs for obtaining the knowledge of whatever the unknown, can be termed as research.

PREAMBLE

The field of dental research in India has witnessed exponential growth in the last five years. However, scientific publications in international peer-reviewed journals have been few. The lacuna of Indian contribution to international scientific literature is probably a skewed understanding of research and its contribution in effecting improved patient care. The primary purpose of research is to produce new knowledge or find new ways of making the existing knowledge available to those who need it. Research is not a separate speciality which is practiced by a few but it is a systematic approach of reasoning, documenting, analysing and reporting unusual clinical observations that we come across in everyday clinical practice.

COURSE CONTENT

PREAMBLE

Research is common parlance refers to a research for knowledge. One can also define research as a scientific and systematic search for pertinent information on a specific topic. In fact, research is an art of scientific investigation. The advanced Learner's Dictionary of current English lays down the meaning of research as a "careful investigation or inquiry specially through search for new facts in any branch of knowledge". Redman and Mory define research as a "Systematized efforts to gain new knowledge" some people considered research as a movement, a movement from the known to the unknown. It is actually a voyage of discovery. We all possess the vital instinct of inquisitiveness for when the unknown confronts us we wonder and our inquisitiveness make us probe and attain full and fuller understanding of the unknown. This inquisitiveness is the mother of all knowledge and the mother which man employs for obtaining the knowledge of whatever the unknown, can be termed as research.

PREAMBLE

Research is common parlance refers to a research for knowledge. One can also define research as a scientific and systematic search for pertinent information on a specific topic. In fact, research is an art of scientific investigation. The advanced Learner's Dictionary of current English lays down the meaning of research as a "careful investigation or inquiry specially through search for new facts in any branch of knowledge". Redman and Mory define research as a "Systematized efforts to gain new knowledge" some people considered research as a movement, a movement from the known to the unknown. It is actually a voyage of discovery. We all possess the vital instinct of inquisitiveness for when the unknown conforms to us we wonder and our inquisitiveness makes us probe and attain full and fuller understanding of the unknown. This inquisitiveness is the mother of all knowledge and the mother which man employs for obtaining the knowledge of whatever the unknown, can be termed as research.

Empathy
REPORT
Venue: Seminar Hall Dept. Of Orthodontics Date: 11 09 2019, 10.00pam 11.00 am Resource Person: Dr Rajiv Ahluwalia
Summary: A programme on "Empathy" was conducted on 11th September 2019 Seminar Hall Dept. Of Orthodontics, At the outset of the programme: Ms. Drishty Kalra introduced the speaker Dr Rajiv Ahluwalia. Sympathy and empathy, commonly confused with each other, are not the same. Sympathy is a statement of emotional concern while empathy is a reflection of emotional understanding. The applications of empathy are widespread and are especially relevant in fields such as medicine, where the successful treatment of patients depends on effective patient-physician interactions. This program explored the concept of empathy and examines its utility in medicine from the perspective of a dental student. 50 students and faculty attended the programme. The audience was benefitted from the programme.

PREAMBLE

The field of dental research in India has witnessed exponential growth in the last five years. However, scientific publications in international peer-reviewed journals have been few. The lacuna of Indian contribution to international scientific literature is probably a skewed understanding of research and its contribution in effecting improved patient care. The primary purpose of research is to produce new knowledge or find new ways of making the existing knowledge available to those who need it. Research is not a separate speciality which is practiced by a few but it is a systematic approach of reasoning, documenting, analysing and reporting unusual clinical observations that we come across in everyday clinical practice.

PREAMBLE

Research in common parlance refers to a search for knowledge. One can also define research as a scientific and systematic search for pertinent information on a specific topic. In fact, research is an art of scientific investigation. The advanced Learner's Dictionary of current English lays down the meaning of research as a "careful investigation or inquiry specially through search for new facts in any branch of knowledge". Redman and Mory define research as a "Systematized efforts to gain new knowledge" some people considered research as a movement, a movement from the known to the unknown. It is actually a voyage of discovery. We all possess the vital instinct of inquisitiveness for when the unknown conforms to our wonder and our inquisitiveness make us probe and attain full and fuller understanding of the unknown. This inquisitiveness is the mother of all knowledge and the mother which man employs for obtaining the knowledge of whatever the unknown, can be termed as research.

PREAMBLE

The field of dental research in India has witnessed exponential growth in the last five years. However, scientific publications in international peer-reviewed journals have been few. The lacuna of Indian contribution to international scientific literature is probably a skewed understanding of research and its contribution in effecting improved patient care. The primary purpose of research is to produce new knowledge or find new ways of making the existing knowledge available to those who need it. Research is not a separate speciality which is practiced by a few but it is a systematic approach of reasoning, documenting, analysing and reporting unusual clinical observations that we come across in everyday clinical practice.

Dr. Kartik conducted a lecture and demonstration on dental adhesives on 20th August 2018 at Inderprastha Dental College and Hospital in collaboration with Biodinamica. Adhesive dentistry is a branch of dentistry that deals with adhesion or bonding to the natural substance of teeth, enamel, and dentin. Recent advancements in dentistry deal with a wide range of adhesives available in the market. When it comes to choosing a dental adhesive, one needs to balance ease of use, technique, strength, and efficiency.

This lecture and demonstration imparted much-needed knowledge on the careful selection of adhesives according to the needs of that particular case.

Clear aligners are orthodontic devices that provide an esthetic alternative to the conventional fixed orthodontic treatment. Aligners have an advantage of being transparent, comfortable, removable and effective in correcting malocclusions. Along with the thickness and material used for aligner fabrication, attachments play an important role in the biomechanics involved in tooth movement using aligners.

A Lecture on "Materials for Aligner Attachments" was organised by Inderprastha Dental College in collaboration with Orthodontic Dental Solutions on 5 May 2018.

It was a comprehensive and informative one day learning session. The Lecture was taken by Dr. Monalisa in which she explained about the principle, composition, use of various Aligner Attachment materials.

PREAMBLE

Research is common parlance refers to a research for knowledge. One can also define research as a scientific and systematic search for pertinent information on a specific topic. In fact, research is an art of scientific investigation. The advanced Learner's Dictionary of current English lays down the meaning of research as a "careful investigation or inquiry specially through search for new facts in any branch of knowledge". Redman and Mory define research as a "Systematized efforts to gain new knowledge" some people considered research as a movement, a movement from the known to the unknown. It is actually a voyage of discovery. We all possess the vital instinct of inquisitiveness for when the unknown conforms us we wonder and our inquisitiveness make us probe and attain full and fuller understanding of the unknown. This inquisitiveness is the mother of all knowledge and the mother which man employs for obtaining the knowledge of whatever the unknown, can be termed as research.

PREAMBLE

The field of dental research in India has witnessed exponential growth in the last five years. However, scientific publications in international peer-reviewed journals have been few. The lacuna of Indian contribution to international scientific literature is probably a skewed understanding of research and its contribution in effecting improved patient care. The primary purpose of research is to produce new knowledge or find new ways of making the existing knowledge available to those who need it. Research is not a separate speciality which is practiced by a few but it is a systematic approach of reasoning, documenting, analysing and reporting unusual clinical observations that we come across in everyday clinical practice.

Tooth bleaching is the process of lightening the colour of teeth. Whitening is often desirable when teeth become yellowed over time for a number of reasons, and can be achieved by changing the intrinsic or extrinsic colour of the tooth enamel.

Currently, the most commonly used professional formulations are gel preparations of hydrogen peroxide or carbamide (urea) peroxide. In recent years a variety of over-the-counter (OTC) products, formulations and delivery systems have been introduced to the profession and general public.

A Lecture on "Materials for Bright Smiles" was organised by Inderprastha Dental College in collaboration with Villevie Brazil on 21 July 2017.

It was a comprehensive and informative one day learning session. The Lecture was taken by Dr. Deep in which he explained about the principle, composition, and use of various Bleaching materials. He highlighted the importance of correct storage of the material, properties and its manipulation.
